On-site generator program

Lake Country Power's on-site generator program helps you reduce your business's demand for electricity from Lake Country Power and improve your bottom line.

With a back-up generator, your electricity can be controlled like the dual fuel program, which can save your business money when demand for electricity is high. During these peak periods, or during system emergencies, a back-up generator is controlled and turned on to reduce demand on the electric system. It's an investment that pays off with long-term savings.

On-site generators also improve the reliability of your electric service, making the technology a good fit for a variety of businesses ranging from large manufacturing to light industrial and retail.

Many area businesses are taking advantage of Lake Country Power's commercial interruptible program. Find out how it can help your business today!
